Cricket's Greatest Show – 150 years in the making

In March 2027, the cricketing world will unite to celebrate 150 years since the first-ever Test match, played between Australia and England at the iconic Melbourne Cricket Ground in 1877.

To mark this historic milestone, a men's day-night Test match will be held between Australia and England, the first of its kind at the MCG, following the success of last summer's women's Ashes day-night Test.

This landmark event will honour the rich heritage of Test cricket while showcasing its modern evolution under lights. The 150th Test promises to be one of the great spectacles in world cricket, a fitting tribute to the legacy of the game and a thrilling experience for fans and guests alike.

The one-off designed Premium Experience products for this test will be marketed to curated, targeted customers ensuring the best possible experience for each guest.
